This is a song where I actually talk to myself. It's me imagining my conversations with God.

"Soon I'll give it to you all. Soon you'll be in love. Read about me, when it's written down, written about me... nilitaani Hawa wawili." That's me reflecting on promiscuity.

"Nimeacha wino wake kwenye wrist, matokeo kila ukiniota unanimiss." That one is to the girl with the matching tattoo.

This is a song where I confront my past and let myself know the future is bright, and the light is coming soon.

Sometimes, when you're going through it, it's best to stay focused. Acknowledge what you're going through, but don't let it hold you. Better days are right ahead of you, and that's what I wanted people to feel.

NAME WHAT YOU'RE GOING THROUGH, THEN KEEP WALKING. BETTER DAYS ARE CLOSER THAN THEY LOOK.
